No Response From Bova, Workers Say

Bang On Drill Stem After Completing Hole Underground

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Rescue workers today completed reaming a 22-inch hole more than 300 feet underground to a chamber where Louis Bova was believed trapped in a mine cave-in 19 days ago.

Workers immediately began banging on the drill stem but got no response.

Plans called for a television camera and perhaps a still camera to be lowered into the chamber and later to send a man down.

Earlier Sunday, drilling of two other probes, a 3-inch one and a 6-inch one, were completed. Microphones were lowered into these chambers but they brought no sign of life.

Gordon Smith, deputy state secretary of mines, said the planned drilling pattern has been completed and there were no immediate plans for further drilling.

Bova was trapped in the cave-in at 9 a.m. Aug. 13 with David Fellin, 58, and Henry Throne, 28. Fellin and Throne were rescued Aug. 27 after 14 days underground.

Bova was separated from Fellin and Throne by a wall of debris. He was reportedly injured and has been without food since the cave-in. Fellin and Throne last reported hearing from him 13 days ago.

SANTA YNEZ, Calif. (AP)—A sky diver holding a red flare plummeted 15,000 feet to his death Saturday night when his parachute failed to open.

The moonlight "fire fall" by 20 parachutists was the day's climatic event at a Labor Day weekend gathering billed as the Santa Ynez jumpers' jamboree.

Cornerstone Rite Staged At School

laying ceremony at the new $760,000 Southern Local High School near Salineville conducted Sunday afternoon by state and area Masonic officers.

Ralph M. Francisco of Dayton, Grand Master of Ohio, presided at the rite at the school, which is scheduled to open next Monday, along with other schools in the Southern Local system.

Delay in delivery of classroom furniture at the high school along Route 39 has brought a postponement of the start of the term.

A PUBLIC inspection of the school building followed the ceremony for which the Southern Local High School band, led by Charles Temple, provided music. Cookies, punch and coffee were served in the cafeteria.

The ceremony was sponsored by Salineville Masonic Lodge 348. The posting of colors was conducted by Pilgrim Commandery 55, Knights Templar, aided by visiting commanderies. Lewis Higgenbotham, school coach, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

THE INVOCATION was given by Robert Longworth of Carrollton, and the proclamation was delivered. Albert Markle, grand marshal. Prayer was led by J. Russel Moore, grand chaplain.

Francisco accepted the trowel from Ernest Clabaugh, and Lewis Call, acting grand treasurer, read the list of memorial placed in the casket.

The tools were presented by Robert Skinner, president of the Southern Local Board of Education. Thomas Leek, principal, introduced the other board members, Charles Allison, Jack Stewart, Miss Ruth McNichol and Mrs. Betty Rhodes.

JACK BAKER, executive head, introduced Robert Beatty of East Liverpool, architect, and Robert Gribben, contractor.

Baker expressed appreciation to all groups which have aided in the school project and other work in connection with the school area and athletic field.

Speech Tour Being Set Up By Goldwater

2-Month, 10-State Campaign Tied To Presidential Nod

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is embarking on a two-month round of selling conservative Republicanism in 10 states which will have strong voices in naming the 1964 GOP presidential nominee.

The reception the senator gets in these states and in his conversations with party leaders could have much to do with whether he decides to jump actively into the nomination race at the end of the year.

Goldwater is to invade what his camp regards as enemy territory in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Oregon. In New York, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is a potential rival for the nomination.

New Jersey Sen. Clifford P. Case and Massachusetts Sen. Leverett Saltonstall seem no more enthusiastic about his brand of Republicanism than is Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon.

Goldwater will open his fall campaigning with a Sept. 9 appearance at Cleveland in behalf of the Ohio Republican finance committee. There is talk that Gov. James A. Rhodes may become a favorite son candidate.

Goldwater accepted an invitation from Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, another potential favorite son, to speak at an Oct. 10 party fund-raising dinner in Hershey.

Tourists Quarantined In Hungarian Hotel

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Two hundred foreign tourists started 21 days of isolation Sunday inside Communist Hungary—quarantined in Budapest's Royal Hotel because of a suspected case of smallpox. Some hated it; others were delighted.

The quarantine penned in Americans, British, West Germans, East Germans and others. Their expenses were being paid by the Hungarian government.

The case of suspected smallpox was detected Saturday in one of the hotel's employees.

Damage was expected to run

Barn Levelled By Glenmoor District Fire

Fire in Fire Destroyed Large Barn Containing an Undetermined

amount of hay and some machinery along with a small shed in the Glenmoor area Sunday night at 7:55. Three firemen were overcome by smoke.

The blaze was at the Theodore Appleby farm on the McIntosh Rd., off the Y. & O. Rd.

The flames, fed by the hay, quickly consumed the entire structure. Firemen still were at the scene at 8:30 wetting down the smoldering hay.

Ordinarily horses are housed in the barn, but luckily they had been left in the pasture for the night.

Firemen saved one shed by wetting it down, but another was destroyed.

The Glenmoor volunteer department was summoned, along with the LaCroft department. The Calcutta volunteer department filled in at Glenmoor station.

Some 25 men were at the scene. Dave Fey, Bob Jones and Wilmer Bryson Jr. were treated for smoke inhalation and heat prostration. They are members of the Glenmoor department.

Firemen said the fire apparently started by spontaneous combustion in the hay.

The blaze was described as "very hot." The barn measured about 40-x-50 feet, firemen said.

327 Killed Already On Highways

May Hit 625 For Holiday Weekend, Official Estimates

By The Associated Press
Traffic deaths mounted on the nation's highways Sunday and safety officials said a new high toll appeared a certainty.

At the three-quarter mark of the three-day, 78-hour holiday period which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday, highway fatalities were well ahead of last year.

The traffic death toll stood at 327. Other fatalities included six dead from boating accidents and 19 by drownings for an overall holiday toll of 353.

The National Safety Council had estimated 430 to 520 lives might be lost in traffic accidents during the holiday period.

But Council President Howard Pyle asserted:

"If the present pace of traffic deaths continues, the final toll could reach 625 to 630. As of now, with deaths running 25 per cent above last year, we see no possibility of avoiding a final figure in excess of the record of 501 fatalities for a Labor Day weekend."

A rash of multiple-fatal accidents since the start of the holiday period helped swell the traffic toll.

In the latest, five Illinois residents were killed Sunday in a collision near Rockville, Ind., and four other persons died when two cars met head-on near Martinsville, Va.

Safety officials, concerned over the mounting toll of auto deaths, urged drivers to slow down and exercise greater caution during the second half of the holiday to keep the final toll from setting a record.

Sunny, Warm Day Forecast

Showers Expected, They'll Be Late

Holding off until tonight on a threat of showers, the Ohio forecaster said today will be sunny and warm, with a high temperature ranging between 74 and 80—a perfect day for picnics, swimming and sun-bathing.

There will be increasing cloudiness and cool weather tonight, with a possibility of showers, the weatherman said.

But the cool, damp weather, if it comes, will arrive at the end of a long three-day holiday that has seen almost ideal weather.

The holiday observance moved ahead Sunday under bright skies and with a temperature range in the low 70's. Saturday also was ideal for outings, although clouds obscured the sun briefly at times.

East Liverpool police reported a "very quiet" Sunday. Five men were in jail, but all were "laying out" fines imposed earlier in Municipal Court on misdemeanor charges.

District traffic yesterday was about normal for a Sunday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported. However, traffic Saturday was described as "heavy," and a pickup in travel was expected for today.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol near Steubenville said traffic in its area has been heavy since the holiday weekend started.

Lisbon police reported heavy traffic Sunday night.

New Record Looms For Traffic Deaths, Safety Experts Say

Another Fete Today

Regatta Attracts Crowd Of 5,000

Thrills and spills were provided for area residents in the East Liverpool Junior Chamber of Commerce's Ohio River Regatta Sunday afternoon and games and contests, a parade and selection of a beauty queen are in store today in Wellsville.

A crowd estimated at over 5,000 attended the regatta yesterday off the Broadway wharf.

The fast hydroplane boats set up a steady roar and threw up great sprays of water as they rounded the curves and provided many thrills for the spectators.

FOUR BOATS were damaged during the course of the races, but only one mishap was of a serious nature.

It involved a crash between boats operated by Don Fenwick of Newark and Carl Holt of Ash-tabula during the B-Stock contest.

The crash was on the far curve from the wharf and the impact was so great that Fenwick's craft imbedded itself in the bottom of Holt's boat.

Fenwick was taken to City Hospital for treatment of shock and abrasions. He was released a short time later.

A HUMOROUS aspect was added to the crash when the spectators did not know of Fenwick was dazed and soaked when he arrived at the hospital. It was

Beaver Falls Youth Escapes Injury In 2nd County Mishap

A Negley motorist was injured in one of five area traffic mishaps Saturday and Sunday, including a three-car collision near Columbiana yesterday afternoon, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

James Halbert, 26, of Negley was treated by an East Palestine physician after his car overturned along Route 170 south of Negley Saturday night, officers said.

Halbert, who suffered a laceration of the forehead, missed a curve, and his 1954 sedan veered off the road about a mile south of Negley and rolled over. The

Sheriff Lacks Clues In Probe Of Robbery

LISBON — The Columbiana County sheriff's office reported Sunday night there is nothing new in the investigation of the armed robbery of the Ward sisters Friday evening at their farm home east of Negley.

Two men forced their way into the kitchen shortly after 6 p.m., tied Ida, 61, and Leoma, 65, and threatened them with a "shiny" gun. The sisters told where the money was. The men took $200 from a pocketbook in a bedroom.

A third sister, Mary, 67, was in the barn milking. The robbers escaped in a car with a third man.

Target Pistol Mishap Wounds Chester Man

A Chester man was hospitalized Saturday at 8:55 p.m. with a bullet wound of the lower leg suffered when he shot himself accidentally while target practicing near the Hillcrest Farms back of Chester.

Robert Louk, 35, of 242 California Ave. was in "fairly good" condition Sunday night with the wound of the right leg.

The Hancock County Sheriff's office said Louk shot himself accidentally as he started to put his .22 caliber pistol into his holster. City police were notified of the incident by hospital authorities.

Upon checking and finding the shooting took place in Hancock County, they turned the investigation over to the West Virginia authorities.

Boy, 9, To Be 5th In Family To Undergo Heart Surgery

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Nine-year-old Richard Briggs must undergo open heart surgery, just as his mother, two brothers and a sister have.

"I don't recall ever having seen so many in one family," said Dr. Joseph Burge, who with Dr. Edward Jenkins has performed all the operations. "It's unusual to have a couple in one family."

The cause has not been pinpointed but most likely it is heredity, Burge said.

The children have three different fathers. Doctors explained that an inherited defect presumably would come from a defective gene passed along by the mother.

The time has not been set for Richard's surgery to correct a defect in an artery which carries blood from the heart to the lungs.

Richard's mother, Mrs. Estella Lee, 34, had the operation last year. The first member of the family to undergo open heart surgery was James McClain, now 13. In 1960 he became the first person in Tulsa to have such an operation.

A year later surgeons repaired the heart of Willard McClain, now 16. The youngest member of the family, Wanda McWayne, 5, had the operation early this year.

So far as doctors can determine, Josephine Briggs, 7, is the one of the children whose heart is normal.

Both James and Willard had a hole between the chambers of the heart.

Mrs. Lee, Wanda and Richard had less serious defects. Doctors said Mrs. Lee's condition was hard to detect.

James and Willard were slowed in growth, their bodies held back by lack of air because of the pinched pulmonary artery which allowed only a little blood to pass through the lungs to be re-oxygenated with oxygen. Wanda was too young to have missed much growth.

Richard's case appears to be less serious than those of the other children.

All the children are in school. "They're really coming along," their mother said. "They run and play now and they're eating lots more, and I think they're really beginning to come out of it and grow now."

'No Politics' Seen Tied To Fete For Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Lewis L. Strauss said Saturday a gathering of about 700 prominent Americans in Hershey, Pa., Oct. 12 to honor former President Dwight D. Eisenhower will have "no political significance."

Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said politics didn't enter into the matter when former guests of Eisenhower at White House stag dinners decided to return the compliment with a celebration two days before the former President's 73rd birthday.

"I am sure there will be prominent Democrats there as well as prominent Republicans," Strauss said in an interview.

There have been reports from other quarters that informal discussion of 1964 GOP presidential possibilities could be expected when Eisenhower chats with some of the party's large financial contributors who rated invitations to the White House dinners.

Despite Strauss' disavowal, it seems likely that anyone who wants to talk a little politics on the side will not be ostracized.

Eisenhower has made it clear to associates that he intends to do all he can to see to it that a moderate Republican is the nominee.

Rig, Trailer Separate In Mishap In East End

A tractor rig became separated from a huge trailer laden with coal in a mishap Saturday about 4 p.m. on Pennsylvania Ave. at Boyce St.

The driver halted for a traffic signal at the intersection, then proceeded when the light turned green. But the front wheels of the trailer buckled and the cargo stayed behind.

At least three hours was required to unload the trailer by hand before it could be towed away by a wrecker. Traffic was slowed, but motorists were able to pass the disabled trailer, which was in the middle of a three-lane stretch. Police were on the scene, but had no formal report of the mishap.

Area Republican Club To Open New Season

The East Liverpool Area Republican Club will open the fall season at a meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Guest speaker will be State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon. Candidates have been invited to attend to discuss plans for the November general election. Lunch will be served.

Richard Judge, vice president, will preside, replacing Charles Boso, president, who resigned after accepting a state Civil Service post.

Influences In Grain Futures Market Seen Rather Minor

CHICAGO (AP) — Influences in the grain futures market were rather minor and of doubtful character most of the time last week and prices on the Board of Trade shifted rather narrowly.

Gains were small but far more numerous than losses as stronger support developed on the final days. Wheat was under pressure until Friday when it posted some fairly substantial gains, probably on largely technical buying, but it finished with setbacks running to more than two cents a bushel on the September contract.

Other grains and soybeans finished generally higher as weather became the major trade factor and created some varied conclusions among analysts as to how much the corn and soybean crop had been affected.

During the week, rainfall was understood to have been rather heavy in some of the dry localities, especially northern Arkansas, and generated at least a temporary bearish sentiment. Moreover, there was a feeling that the moisture had boosted prospects considerably in areas where bumper yields already seemed certain.

Meanwhile, spot checks by brokerage firms stirred a good deal of talk that the government's August estimate may have been a little high for both corn and soybeans. Some of the advices indicated soybean production might be well under the 1962 yield and that corn was not filling completely, that ends of the ears still were bare.

However, a general crop summary by a private firm at the end of the week forecast a soybean yield of 740 million bushels, far above any previous estimate, and a corn yield of about 4 million.

The government's estimate of soybean production was 723.2 million bushels and the corn yield at 3,861 million.

Because of the uncertainty, speculators were reluctant to extend commitments very far either way and were inclined to trade at small profit. Thus, offerings increased on small bulges and minor setbacks pulled out short covering.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1/2-3/4 cents a bushel lower than a week ago, September $1.77 1/4-1/2; corn 1/2 higher to 1/4 lower, September $1.25 1/4-1/2; oats unchanged to 1/2 higher, September 64-63 1/2 cents; rye 1/2 lower to 1 1/2 higher, September $1.30 1/2; soybeans 1 cent lower to 1 1/2 higher, September $2.57 1/4-57.

Last-Minute Plea For Safety

With the Labor Day holiday heading into the home stretch and traffic deaths occurring at what could be a record pace, a final safety message can't come a minute too soon.

Every holiday brings its quota of such messages, but one of the most unique to date has been offered by a judge at Cincinnati.

After denying probation to the driver of a taxicab which struck and killed a Hamilton County patrolman Judge Louis Schneider warned others against a "disease" that kills. He calls it "gaspeliditis." It's a term that won't be found in any medical dictionary but Judge Schneider defined it as "speed—speed that kills."

The message is particularly appropriate as we wind up the last holiday of the summer and come to the time when vacationists wait until the last minute then rush home for the opening of the school term.

Because there is every chance that a record-high traffic toll will mar the holiday—the National Safety Council estimates that as many as 600 persons may die—the emphasis this holiday is on "courtesy."

Translating the word into a concrete action that all drivers can understand, the council says it means: Yield the right of way.

In studying the causes of the 1963 Fourth of July traffic deaths, the council found that failure to yield the right of way rose 60 per cent above expectations as a major cause of accidents.

So if you want to get back alive and healthy from your holiday trip, start early, take it easy, keep your temper and don't drink.

And above all, even though the other fellow is in the wrong, play it safe—yield the right of way.

Return Of The Turncoats

The colony of American turncoats in Red China is thinning out.

Twenty-one U.S. servicemen originally refused repatriation at the conclusion of the Korean conflict. Only six now remain behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Why? Disenchantment with the Communist concept of a paradise on earth.

Their motives for buying the Red Chinese sales pitch in the first place were probably as varied as those which prompt much of the erratic in human behavior. It's known that Peking offered tempting inducements: good jobs, education, an easy life and a place in the front ranks of a world revolution. The wary shied off; the gullible snapped it up.

Now they've found out communism for what it is: A pot of gold at the end of a rainbow, a promise that somehow never comes true.

While their defection was embarrassing at the time, their return also poses some problems. Those responsible for the security of this country must be certain that their change of heart is honest and not just a guise for subversive activity. Unfortunately, there's no way of determining this for sure.

The public's acceptance of them back into the mainstream of American life is another question mark. Anonymity—except for federal intelligence—could solve this problem.

It all boils down to a pathetic sight of war—pathetic for the turncoats themselves, their families and their nation.

Scientists, Spare That Moon

Arise young lovers wherever you are, U.S. scientists are developing a miniature cannon to be fired off on the moon and, if they are successful, there may be no moon in your future.

The scientists hope the shot will jiggle the moon with artificial moonquakes sufficient to raise a dust to supply vital information about the lunar ball.

The miniature mortar cannon would be landed by spacecraft. It would fire a projectile for a mile across the moon's surface. A wire attached to the mortar shell would spark charges, set to go off automatically later at a time signal. The wire also would measure how far each charge had landed from seismometers—tremor-measuring instruments—set up on the moon.

There would be no sound to hear, because the moon apparently has no atmosphere.

The scientists hope that moonquakes radiated back to earth would give them information about the composition of the lunar surface, geology near the surface, perhaps variations of temperature with depth and possibly the presence of water in the form of ice.

If the scientists succeed in their experiment, is it possible the explosions and quakes would bust the moon to bits? Or, worse still, what if it proves what many have contended all along—that the moon is made of green cheese?

What would young lovers do then?

Silly Season Memories

It's been ages since we've had a year without an accompanying "silly season" but with 1963 already two-thirds gone, it promises to be just such a year.

In the past, giddiness usually reached its height in the spring and summer periods of school vacations. At those times the usual flow of news practically dries up and the void is filled with the off-beat doings of the college crowd, the Loch Ness serpent, flying saucers and the like.

Mecca For Curious

A huge apartment house, piled up in the wedding cake style of New York's Woolworth Building, rises from the Moscow plain, a soldier-than-Stalin symbol of Communist progress.

But draped around the outside is a rusty wire net, rigged to catch chunks of brick and plaster that steadily peel off the crumbling facade. The building is six years old.

That is Moscow, capital of the Communist world.

Envious of the material achievements of the West, the city barges ahead, heavy-handed, to imitate them.

BUT SOME of the physical and spiritual mortar seems to have been left out of the mixture.

The sprawling city on a double S-curve of the Moscow River is the target for the curious, from West, East and the new nations on the political fence.

They come by the thousands: Stern East, Germans with rimless eyeglasses and shiny gray shoes. Chattering Japanese with cameras, and thin leather belts that wrap around their trousers nearly twice.

Tinkling Indonesian belles with wide eyes and slinky silks, caught tight at the waist. Brooding Indians in gay saris with vermilion dots painted in the center of their foreheads.

Dozens of young Africans in Bond St. suits, busy reading Communist newspaper published in London and Paris. Tall, brawny Australians.

Englishmen peering through eyeglasses with thin horn rims. American tourists, slung with cameras, writing postcards in the hotel lobbies and complaining about the coffee. What do they see?

PHYSICALLY they see a squat city of flat-topped brick buildings and tumbledown log cabins, spiked here and there by cathedral-like towers. Most of the buildings are big and almost all are badly built, and already falling apart.

The avenues are so broad it takes two stop lights to get across many of them.

A thin industrial haze hangs over the city all year long, even in the summer when it is light until 11 o'clock at night, and gets bright again at four in the morning.

This year the longshoremen and newspaper strikes, the railroad featherbedding issue, the march on Washington, race riots, Kennedy's troubles with Congress and other earthshaking events crowded the goldfish swallows, party raiders, phone booth crowdies, etc., off the pages of the daily press.

Had it not been for the finding of the buried treasure at Troy, Ohio, we would have had no fond nostalgia to remind us the the past.

There is a small concocted of perfumed one, a concrete and yellow-plaster imitation tobacco, low-octane gasoline, boiled cabbage and humans who still adhere to the weekly bath ritual.

They see the people:

Russians in bright sports shirts and print dresses, shuffling in the long line to see the body of Lenin in his marble tomb, joking the time away with stories about Lenin's old tomb-mate Stalin, now moved to an almost unmarked grave. They seem glad he is gone.

A family, complete with kerchiefed grandmother and a mischief of children, strolling through an exhibition of the newest models of things they cannot afford to buy, or can't find in the stores.

Middle-aged, frumpy women in leather boots, grumpily sweeping the streets with ragged, long-handled brooms. (There is no unemployment in the Soviet Union—there is a lot of made work).

THE VISITORS see the Kremlin, and thong through the tree-shaded paths inside the red brick walls, past the ultra-modern palace of congresses (with American-made plumbing), and the pale yellow plaster apartments where Stalin lived and Khrushchev works now. (The Kremlin has been open to visitors since 1955).

They snap pictures of the steps of the private entrance to the cathedral built for Ivan the Terrible.

He was excommunicated because of his collection of wives, and couldn't use the front door. He finally became dissatisfied with his own entrance and built the candy-striped St. Basil's Cathedral. Then he had the architects' eyes put out so they couldn't duplicate it.

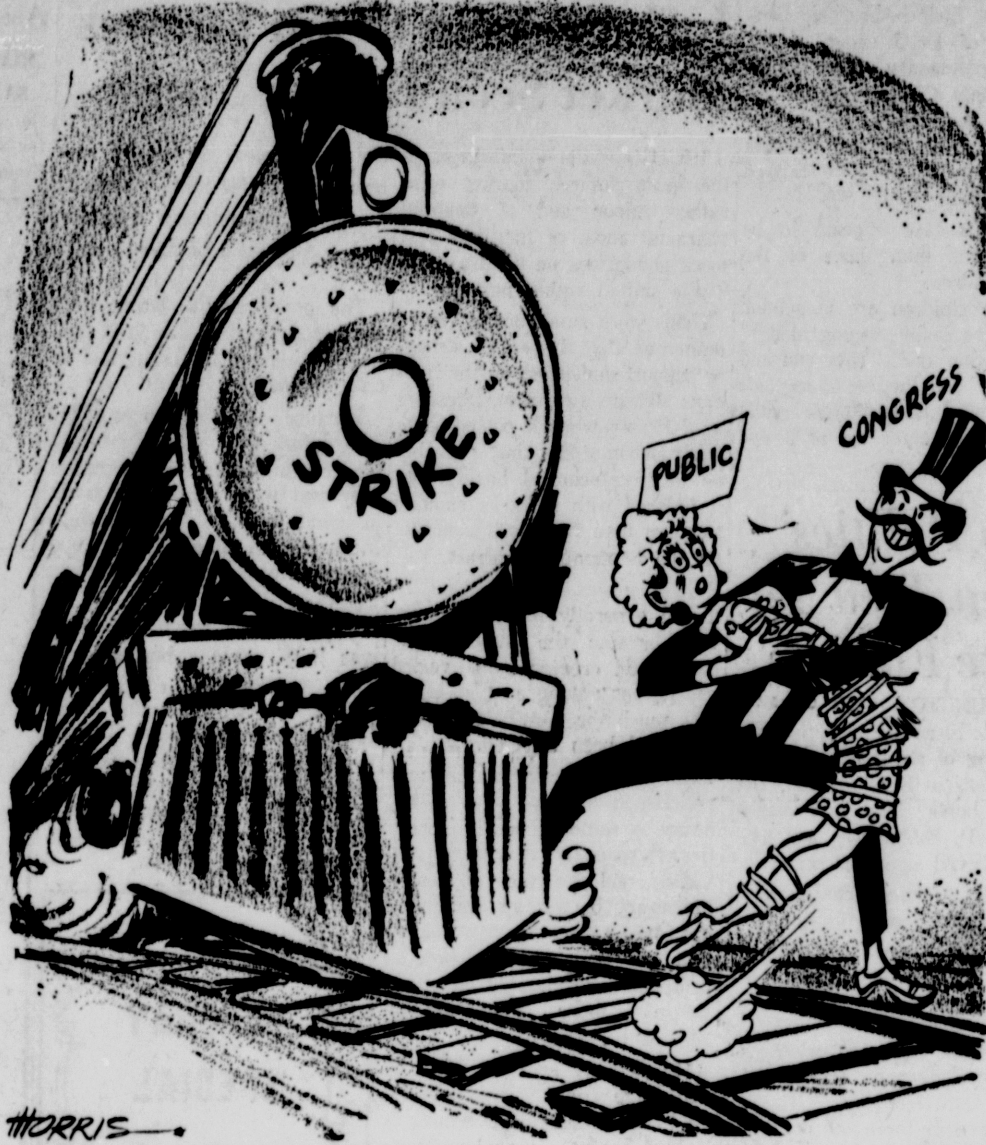

What do the visitors think?

"It's a grim place, drab, sort of lifeless," said the young student from Sioux Falls, S.D.

"I've been traveling through Eastern Europe this summer, and I thought Warsaw was the end, until I came to Moscow."

"Oh, I'm sure they must have made a lot of progress here. You'd have to be blind not to see that. But the air is stifling. Everything seems to be so wound up in red tape. I wonder what they could have done, with a little freedom."

Passamaquoddy Comes Up Once More

By Raymond Moley

Long, long ago, when Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a very little boy, his parents built a summer home on Campobello Island in the Bay of Fundy.

There, as a youth, a young man, and later a national celebrity, he spent many summer holidays. No doubt, he pondered deeply about the immense tides which pushed their way, obedient to lunar influence, into Passamaquoddy Bay.

In 1919 an imaginative engineer, Dexter P. Cooper, also pondered on these tremendous lunar forces and conceived a scheme to harness them to generate electricity.

In 1921 Mr. Roosevelt learned about this, and his capricious interest was instantly engaged.

But illness, public service, and many other risky schemes occupied his mind in the years that followed—schemes which ranged from lobster packing to vending machines and to quarter-in-the-slot machines to take photographs in railway stations and stores.

In 1935, when the United States Treasury was subject to his speculative imagination, the Passamaquoddy project popped up again, and Congress appropriated $7 million to start construction.

The next year when more funds were needed Sen. Arthur Vandenberg's eloquence and massed facts persuaded his colleagues in Congress to drop the idea.

BUT IN 1941 Roosevelt induced the Federal Power Commission to study the idea. That body flatly said it was not practical.

In 1948 the governments of the United States and Canada asked the International Joint Commission to reopen the consideration of the Passamaquoddy project. The IJC answered that detailed investigation was needed.

In 1956 Congress appropriated $3 million and Canada $300,000 for such a study. In 1961 the IJC reported that the scheme was not feasible.

Presumably, the preoccupation of the present administration with the moon led to thinking about what good came from the moon. Then somebody thought about tides, and then somebody remembered the old Passamaquoddy project.

And so President Kennedy asked the ever-ready Stewart Udall to try once more with new plans. The result is a report issued in July of this year which recommended the authorization of the project after favorable negotiations with Canada.

THE THING looks very simple. With every high tide a vast amount of water rushes up into Passamaquoddy Bay through various inlets from the Bay of Fundy.

Then at low tide the water rushes back into the Bay of Fundy. Simply provide dams for most of the inlets and thus force the water through a passage into the "upper pool." And when the tide goes down below, let the water escape through generators—and presto, a large amount of electric power.

The motion of the water is not continuous like the flow of a river. The back flow, which is supposed to operate the generators, lasts only a few hours a day.

The project is estimated to produce 1 million kilowatts of power one hour a day. A subsidiary adjunct, the Dickey, would provide 250,000 kilowatts.

THE ESTIMATED cost would be $24 per kilowatt of capacity and 4 mills per kilowatt hour at the site. This would make Passamaquoddy the highest-priced power in the country.

According to the estimate, when the project is completed the total cost, with interest, would be $1.025 billion. But since the estimates of the Bureau of Reclamation in several specific completed projects have in the past been only about a third or a fourth of the ultimate cost, this billion-dollar estimate must be taken with a large grain of salt.

A conservative estimate based upon the past history of project costs would put the ultimate cost at two to three billion dollars.

But just what benefit will the consuming public of New England get from this lunar power brought into their homes and streets and factories in the form of electricity?

Private utilities estimate that 36 times the amount of additional power will be needed than will be supplied by Passamaquoddy. This will be met by new construction of steam and atomic plants.

The scheme is a dream, but, unlike most dreams, it is a very expensive one.

Wobbly Joeys

Wander back o' bourke into the never-never and you're likely to see wallabies and wallaroos with their wobbly joeys.

Translation from Australian: Go a long way into the wild and you may see some kangaroos with their young ones.

Kangaroos, and the unique duck-billed platypus, represent Australia to many people. Both are marsupials, pouched animals that make up much of Australia's native fauna.

The strange animals of the island continent are described in the September issue of National Geographic in an article by Australian zoologist David Fleay.

"Here are mammals seemingly forgotten by time—still primitively equipped with pouches to carry and nurse their tiny, helpless young. They run an incredible range from towering kangaroos and cuddlesome koalas to wire-whiskered Tasmanian devils, lumbering wombats, and dainty, pouched mice." Fleay writes.

At his Fauna Sanctuary in West Burleigh, Queensland, and at other Australian zoos, Fleay has bred for the first time in captivity 20 wild species—among them the fur-bearing, egg-laying platypus.

Labor Faces Decision

By John N. Adams

Pushbutton Civilization Presents Problem

At no time since the invention of the lever and the wheel have the mechanical monsters of man's creation been more of a boon or a bane to him than on this Labor Day.

As primitive man faced the challenges of the unknowns of a mechanical age, modern man faces the greater challenges of a push-button civilization with its myriad of problems that defy solution.

These mindless brain-children he has fathered are taking away his accustomed means of livelihood. Almost everything that human hands can do, these modern tireless wonders do better, faster and cheaper.

And these 20th century marvels are being put into use by the thousands. The greatest minds in the country are hard at work on the problem of job displacement that has risen but so far no one has come up with a satisfactory answer. It's too big for man to get a firm grip on it.

There are now more than 4 million men and women seeking employment in jobs that no longer exist.

BY 1967 the unemployment total will jump to 14.6 million if the projections of the U.S. Department of Labor are correct. It's estimated that the U.S. economy must create 36.5 million new jobs in the 1960s just to maintain the present ratio of employed to unemployed.

Despite the cloudy future outlook in the labor picture, no one—even the labor union leaders most adversely affected—believes that automation, of itself, is all bad—that it does not have boundless potential benefits.

As the age of automation gathers momentum it will create new industries of its own and while it promises a fuller life to most people some day—it can be understood and controlled—it offers little comfort to those now in its undertow.

And what of the future generations?

One of the great minds deeply concerned with the problem has remarked that "unless society summons the will and the imagination to alter itself to the rhythms of this new kind of technology, our kids may grow up with nothing much to do but loaf."

SOME COMPARE the current labor upheaval to the Industrial Revolution but the comparison is perfunctory.

In the Industrial Revolution people got hurt because the world was breaking out of an agrarian society to build an industrial society that created jobs. Now we are breaking out of an industrial society to build a technological society that is destroying jobs.

And this trend raises the big question: "When we destroy the job, do we also destroy the man?"

John I. Snyder Jr., chairman of the board of U.S. Industries, Inc., which specializes in design of automated machines, answers that very likely we do. He adds that we are doing it because we must: "It can't be stopped. They tried it in the Industrial Revolution. They even legislated against the powered spindle—but it didn't work because England had to export. It won't work today for the same reason. We're living in a competitive world."

As he watches his mindless wonders at work, Mr. Snyder is both pleased with the prospects of the better life but he also is troubled by the problems his gadgets have created and is bending every effort to find solutions.

UNION LABOR leaders, too, are concerned about the future and now are doing more than just talk about remedies. This is evidenced by the recent agreement between the union and the steel industry guaranteeing at least two years of labor peace in steel.

The steel agreement is but one of several exceptions to the old theory that all industry is anti-labor and vice versa.

Other pioneers in the search for a common ground on which labor and capital can stand are the United Mine Workers, American Motors, Kaiser Steel, the Chicago local of the Flat Janitors Union and the New York Lithographers Union.

On some fronts, management and labor still are slugging it out but the picture is changed radically from 30 years ago when labor was fighting for wages and hours and the right to organize.

Now it is the machine marching against the workman and the latter is fighting for survival.

IN THIS BATTLE union labor has alienated a sympathetic public by demands for shorter work weeks, demands for more and more and offering less and less in return.

The railroad featherbedding issue, the long newspaper strikes last spring, the costly longshoremen's strikes on the East and West coasts, jurisdictional disputes and intra-union jealousies have further dimmed the labor union image.

However, like it or not, labor has passed the "point of no return." There is no turning back but as long as man refuses to admit defeat there is the promise of a better and brighter tomorrow.

Pearson's 100 Days

By Gerald Waring

OTTAWA

The first hundred days of Canada's new Liberal government have been disappointing to the administration's friends and encouraging to former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker and the Conservatives who hope to return to power.

In the election campaign Prime Minister Lester Pearson had promised "60 days of decision" and the promise hung like the Ancient Mariner's albatross around the collective neck of the cabinet—all greenhorns except for four ministers with previous experience in government. Parliament adjourned after 56 days with the government tallying an unimpressive record of achievement.

Sheer survival was the government's greatest domestic achievement. Liberals are outnumbered by the three opposition parties in the House of Commons.

The Social Crediters and the New Democrats interpreted the spring election result as a mandate for the Liberals to bring forth a program. Survival also came about because the opposition parties were unwilling to defeat the government just yet. On two occasions when all three opposition parties voted no-confidence, enough Conservatives absented themselves to ensure the government's survival.

But from the country's standpoint the most important result of the change in government was rapprochement with the United States, effected by Mr. Pearson and President Kennedy at Hyannis Port in May.

THE GOVERNMENT signed an agreement to purchase U.S. nuclear weapons which will close the northern gap in continental defenses. The Diefenbaker government had balked at this step.

Other negotiations are underway on ending harassment of Canadian lake ships in U.S. ports as part of a union dispute, amendment of the 1961 treaty for development of Columbia River power, the Passamaquoddy tidal power project, protection of U.S. fishing rights inside the new fisheries limit Canada proposes, modernization of the St. Lawrence-Hudson River canal system and joint operation of the Franklin D. Roosevelt home on Campobello Island.

But perhaps the most impressive evidence of the Kennis Port spirit was the ready agreement of the Kennedy administration to exempt new Canadian securities issues from the tax on exports of U.S. capital.

Canadians merely pointed out the calamitous effect of the tax on the Canadian economy which depends on U.S. capital for development and the fact that Canada is in a deficit position in exchange transactions with the United States.

In domestic affairs tax incentives for industrial expansion were invoked to expand the economy, and a Department of Industry, a National Economic Advisory Council and a Municipal Loan Board were created.

A three-year wheat sale contract with the Chinese bolstered agriculture, but the Chinese extracted a promise for greater Chinese exports to Canada as part of the agreement.

To meet French-Canadian dissatisfaction the government set up a royal commission for the strengthening of English-French bilingualism and biculturalism.

ON THE MINUS side, the new government's economic wizard, finance minister Walter Gordon, has failed to clean up the "economic mess" as promised in the campaign. He called for a 30 per cent tax on foreign "takeover" purchases of Canadian industry, causing the stock market to plunge, and then had to withdraw the proposal.

Wirtz Blasts Trainmen In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz expressed confidence Sunday that railroad management and the on-train unions will negotiate successfully to avert a new strike threat in 1964. And he blamed the trainmen's union for the failure to keep the dispute out of Congress.

Congress last week passed legislation providing for binding arbitration of the two principal work rules issues—firemen's jobs and train-crew makeup—but leaving seven lesser issues for settlement by direct bargaining. This blocked a strike set for last Thursday.

Under the legislation, a strike is barred for six months but there has been some apprehension that the negotiations will lead to another deadlock in the four-year-old dispute and revive the strike threat early in 1964.

Asked on a recorded radio-television program whether he shares this concern, Wirtz answered:

"I do not. I am sure that there is a very real awareness on both sides... that there must be a settlement by collective bargaining of the other issues and I think that there will be."

A reporter quoted Charles Luna, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen as saying of the legislation: "It is the lowest blow labor has taken in many a year. It is the beginning of the end for collective bargaining for all." The newsmen asked Wirtz whether he agrees. He replied:

"I don't agree. If it was a low blow at labor, it was a blow which Mr. Luna struck at himself. But it has none of the breadth of effect which is suggested by that statement."

Wirtz noted that the unions accepted in principle his proposal to submit the two main issues to voluntary arbitration with the other points of difference to be settled by negotiation. But conditions were attached by the union side and no voluntary agreement was reached, so legislation was passed to avert the strike.

Of these unsuccessful negotiations, Wirtz said:

"There was no reneging as far as the others (unions) were concerned, but the train crews did attach conditions to the arbitration which made it impossible to reach agreement on it."

1 Killed, 2 Injured In One-Car Accident

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Minerva Seward, 31-year-old Springfield woman, was killed early Sunday when the car in which she was riding crashed through a fence surrounding Port Columbus Airport.

Columbus police said the woman was thrown from the car driven by Willie Reed, 30, also of Springfield. Reed and another passenger, Joseph Howard, 35, of Springfield, were injured.

Friend Of Slain Girl Is Turned Over To Court

CINCINNATI (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Michael Wehrung, who was the boyfriend of slain Patricia Ann Rebholz, was turned over to Juvenile Court early Sunday on a dependency commitment signed voluntarily by his parents.

Patricia Ann was found beaten to death last Aug. 8 in a yard in suburban Greenhills. She had been killed after she left an American Legion teen-age dance to go to the Wehrung home.

Juvenile Court Judge Benjamin

Schwartz said the parents believed the boy needed the Juvenile Court's consulting services. The boy was taken to the Youth Center and Judge Schwartz said he is not being questioned.

The boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wehrung, said Michael had been under "terrific strain" for the last three weeks and that they believed it would be to his best interests to have him in the custody of the Juvenile Court. They emphasized it was a voluntary action in their part.

Michael was questioned extensively after Patricia's body was found and took several lie detector tests. He denied, however, having any part in the slaying.

No charges ever were filed, although Hamilton County Prosecutor Ray Shannon said the officers were not completely satisfied with all of the answers he gave to questions.

While Lodge's Busy As A Bee

U.S. Envoy's Wife Calm In Explosive Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—One part of the house was a beehive. Officials and newsmen were in and out to see U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. In another part of the house, Mrs. Lodge sat calmly at a table.

"Know what I was doing?" she asked. "I was pasting pictures of my grandchildren on a board to keep where I can look at them—all 10."

She is a picture of calm in a situation that is explosive.

Told by a newsmen that 30,000 Vietnamese were staging an anti-American demonstration in the city square, her eyes danced and she said, "Isn't it exciting, though?"

"Know what I would like to do?" she asked a reporter. "Follow you around all day and listen to what people say."

She said she and her husband have not been around Saigon much since their arrival. They took a walk through the tense city on Saturday, which startled the Vietnamese.

"We went walking twice after dark," Mrs. Lodge said, "And I've been to the flower market and had three washable dresses made post-haste."

But there has been little socializing in the way diplomats and their wives are supposed to.

To hear Mrs. Lodge talk, this isn't because President Ngo Dinh Diem's government is threatened by the Buddhist crisis or that the war against Communist guerrillas may take a bad turn.

Mrs. Lodge, in a wifely way, explained: "We're still moving in, you see."

They arrived Aug. 22 at the height of the crisis.

Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and Republican senator from Massachusetts, is the lean, athletic type. So is his wife.

They play badminton. Mrs. Lodge said, to keep in shape. In Boston's Back Bay, friends describe Emily Sears Lodge as gracious, cultured, traditional and modest.

She prefers to remain in the background as her husband pursues his diplomatic and political career. But in Washington and New York, she was considered a gracious hostess in the social functions required of a diplomatic family.

She and Lodge married in July 1926, merging two of Boston's most prominent families. She was a 1923 debutante and a graduate of an exclusive girls' school. She studied also in Europe and speaks good French, a help in this former French colony.

She likes the white brick U.S. Embassy residence here but can't wait to do some shopping for it. And she likes the extensive grounds, except that "nothing in the garden has anything to do with anything in Massachusetts."

Some cooks like to score flank steak before broiling it. Scored or not, the steak must be sliced—after broiling briefly—against the grain and very thinly.

Girl Who Lost In Bid For Page Boy Is Rewarded

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Joy Martha Maranze who, as a Dayton teenager in 1961 made an unsuccessful attempt to get a page boy's job in the Ohio Legislature, got a reward Saturday for her efforts.

The Martha Cook Foundation of Baltimore, Md., through its trustees, Helen Elizabeth Brown and Rose S. Zetzer, granted Joy, now 21, $3,000 in recognition of her "single-handed, valiant and courageous service to the cause of civil rights of American women, to compensate her in some measure for the education and monetary loss resulting from sex discrimination in appointment of pages to the Ohio General Assembly."

The Ohio Legislature employs only young male pages.

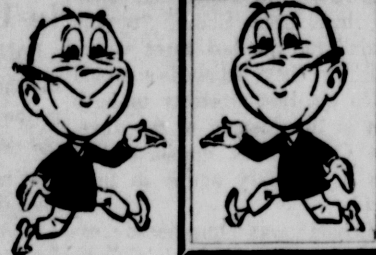

Joy visited Columbus several times in 1961 in her unsuccessful efforts to get a page job. She could find no legislator or state officials who would back her in offering a resolution calling for her appointment.

Marking The Place

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some fairly hot love letters are found among pages of romantic fiction books returned to local libraries, librarians say. "We also find a lot of unpaid bills," says Mrs. Elizabeth D. O'Kane, who recently compiled a list of things found in returned books. "But there's never any money found in books."

Retired Steel Official Dies

Thomas J. Hudson of Banfield Ave., Toronto, who retired in 1960 as manager of raw materials and assistant secretary of the Weirton Steel Co., died Saturday at 9 a. m. at the Methodist Hospital in Houston, Tex., where he had been a patient nine weeks. He was 68.

Mr. Hudson had gone to the Texas hospital for surgery. Mr. Hudson was born at Toronto Jan. 30, 1895, a son of the late James and Margaret Paisley Hudson. President of the Jefferson County Heart Association, he was a member of the Toronto First Presbyterian Church, president of its congregation and a member of the Board of Trustees.

Mr. Hudson also was a member of Masonic Lodge 583 of Toronto and Shriners Alladin of Columbus.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith Hudson, and a son, Dr. Dohrman Stratton of Toronto.

Services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Mark Allen, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Toronto Union Cemetery.

Masonic services will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Stanley M. Turel Funeral Home. Masonic members will meet at the lodge at 7:30.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p. m. today.

Services Scheduled For Billy R. Stevens

Services were to be held at 1 this afternoon for Billy R. Stevens, 34, of Redick's Hill, Newell, who was electrocuted Saturday morning while painting at the Weirton Steel Co., where he was employed part-time.

The services will be conducted at the Arner Funeral Chapel in Chester by Evangelist Gary Vought of the Bradshaw Ave. Church of Christ. Burial will be in Shadowlawn Memorial Cemetery at Newell.

Friends may call at the chapel up to the time of the services.

Mr. Stevens was painting from scaffolding when he came in contact with a 6,600-volt power line at the mill, authorities said. He was employed at the Globe Brick Co.

He was born Aug. 19, 1929, at Middlebourne, W. Va., a son of Harley Stevens of Glenmoor and the late Mrs. Oma Fletcher Stevens. He was a member of the Chester Church of Christ, the Lawrenceville American Legion and United Brick and Clay Workers Union 647. He was an Army veteran, having served in the Korean Conflict.

Besides his father and his step-mother, Mrs. Catheline Stevens, survivors include his widow, Mrs. Ann Stine Stevens, at home; a brother, Frederick Stevens of Chester, and two sisters, Mrs. Ted (Pauline) Hosey of Toronto and Mrs. Darryl (Mary) Bowen in California.

Student Driver's Car Involved In Collision

Moderate damage resulted to two cars in a mishap on St. Clair Ave. at McKinnon Ave. involving a student driver Sunday afternoon at 4:20.

Police said a 1957 coach owned by Lee C. Schmidbauer, 818 Highland Ave., parked on St. Clair Ave., was damaged on the left side when struck by an auto operated by Marilyn Stansbury, 16, of Anderson Blvd.

The girl told officers she was making a right turn onto McKinnon Ave. when an oncoming auto forced her against the parked auto. Her car, a 1950 sedan, was damaged on the right bumper.

Pike Revenue Hit Record In August

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Turnpike had an estimated $3.41 million during August for the best revenue month of its eight-year history, James W. Shocknessy, turnpike commission chairman, said Saturday. Previous high month was August of last year with $3,282,381.

For the first eight months of 1963, the Ohio Turnpike has had total revenue of approximately $18,450,000, also a record and about $500,000 more than a year ago.

Brian Displays Hacker Painting At Lisbon Office

Richard G. Brian of East Liverpool, county recorder, hung an oil painting of the Courthouse on his office wall at Lisbon last week.

The framed canvas was done by artist Hans Hacker, who operates Commercial Decal, Inc., 330 Vine St.

Hacker painted the picture this summer. Sunlight and shadow live on the buff and gray sandstone building and brighter colors show up in the red traffic light, green trees and flowers bordering the park.

The perspective is so true that some viewers have asked: "Who took that?" The picture, 35-x-29 inches, was on display in an East Liverpool store window during Morgan's Raid centennial in July.

The oil is the second in the Courthouse. County Engineer Charles O. Snyder of Salem displays a painting of the covered bridge at Teegarden. It was done by John C. Litty of Salem, a partner in McMillan Abstract Co. in the Courthouse.

In early Biblical days, all blue stones were called sapphires. It was some time later that the name became associated only with the hard, transparent blue mineral corundum. The other blue stones were given new names such as lapis lazuli, turquoise and azurite.

Sapphires occur in several other colors besides blue — white, yellow, red and orange. The most popular is the Kashmir (Cashmere) sapphire in a rare "velvety" cornflower blue shade. It has a somewhat sleepy or soft appearance, unlike the other oriental sapphires that are a rich royal blue. Ceylon, Burma, and Australia are major sources for sapphires, although some stones of a steel blue color are found in Montana.

The very popular form of sapphire is the stone exhibiting the natural star phenomenon. This is termed asterism, and occurs when the sapphire is cut en cabochon with a flat bottom and convex or domed top. Ruby, the red corundum and sister gem to sapphire, also may exhibit the star effect. It is caused by three sets of reflecting grating or striae, which are parallel crystal growth lines.

Those born in September are fortunate to have the lovely sapphire as a special and lucky birthstone. Both men and women can easily find any number of sapphire-set rings, pendants, pins, cufflinks or watches. There is a wide price range available in our fine collection of sapphire pieces, both in the natural gems, and in the new synthetic sapphires. These latter stones have almost identical chemical and wearing properties as the natural gems, but of course, at far less cost. The synthetic or natural star stones are particularly attractive, so do stop in and see them soon.

Miss Dorothy Thompson, J. R. Pike Exchange Vows

Miss Dorothy Sue Thompson became the bride of James R. Pike during a candlelight ceremony the evening of Aug. 17 at 7:30 o'clock in the Calcutta United Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Thompson of Calcutta and her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Pike of Rogers.

The Rev. Thomas P. Clyde, pastor, officiated for the double-ring rites before an altar banked with white gladioli, palms and seven-branch candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Mrs. Claire Unrue, church organist, gave a half-hour recital of wedding music. Mrs. Edwin Firestone sang "Always," "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, outlined with sequins and pearls, and short shirred sleeves.

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a matching lace cap highlighted with pearls and sequins. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white carnations and lily-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. James Russell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William Lyder and Miss Paula Bryan. They wore dresses of white dacron organza over taffeta designed with lace jackets.

Their headpieces with theater veils, and shoes were purple. They carried Colonial bouquets of white carnations, purple asters and lily-of-the-valley. Pearl earrings and bracelets were gifts of the bride.

Jack A. Pike served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Richard Moore, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and William Lyder.

The mother of the bride chose a knit dress of poudre blue nylon with white accessories and the bridegroom's mother wore a beige knit brocade dress with brown and beige accessories. White orchid corsages complemented their attire.

A reception for 250 followed in the social rooms. The buffet table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a four-tier cake topped with a miniature bride couple and encircled with fernery.

Aides were Mrs. Thomas Clyde, Mrs. Robert Boyd, Mrs. Unrue, Mrs. Raymond Huston, Mrs. Elmer Schmitt and Mrs. Fry Reynolds.

Guests were from San Jose, Calif.; Rushville, Ind.; Detroit, East Palestine, Youngstown, Akron and Columbus.

For her honeymoon to Lake Erie, the bride wore a gray dress with black and white accessories and her bridal corsage.

The newlyweds are graduates of Beaver Local High School, the bride in 1962 and the bridegroom in 1961.

The bride was also graduated from the Lewis, Weinberger & Hill Academy of Cosmetology. Her husband was graduated from the Riggs, LaMar Barbering College of Akron and is employed at

'Echo' Visible In Area Again

Echo I, the earth satellite launched Aug. 12, 1960, became visible again in East Liverpool district skies Sunday night.

The aluminum-skinned balloon, towering as high as a 10-story building, was visible last night from 11:12 until 11:32, rising in the southwest and disappearing in the east.

When the communications satellite was launched, scientists hoped it would stay aloft at least a week. Now the earth's longest-lived satellite, Echo I is expected to stay aloft another four years. Circling the earth at an altitude of 1,000 miles, it is scheduled to move closer to this planet until it eventually burns up in the atmosphere.

It still is the brightest object in the sky with the exception of the sun, moon and the planet Venus.

The satellite is scheduled to make four passes over the area tonight and early Tuesday. Here's the schedule:

From 10:07 to 10:27, moving south to east, high in the southeast; 12:09 to 12:29 a.m., southwest to northeast, overhead; 2:12 to 2:32 a.m., northwest to northeast, overhead; and 4:15 to 4:35 a.m., northwest to east, overhead.

Its passes Tuesday will be: 11:05 to 11:25 p.m., southwest to northeast, overhead; 1:07 to 1:27 a.m., northwest to northeast, overhead; 3:10 to 3:30 a.m., northwest to east, overhead; and 5:12 to 5:32 a.m., northwest to south-east, overhead.

Wednesday: 10 to 10:20 p.m., southwest to northeast, overhead; 12:02 to 12:22 a.m., west to northeast, overhead; 2:05 to 2:25 a.m., northwest to southeast, overhead; and 4:08 to 4:28 a.m., west to east, overhead. ## 13 Treated At Hospital

Bike Mishap Hurts Child; Girl Cut On Barbed Wire

A Maplewood girl hurt in a fall on a bicycle and a Newell girl injured in a fall into barbed wire were among 13 youngsters treated at City Hospital Saturday and Sunday.

Rebecca Hales, 9, daughter of John Hales, 589 Blackmore St., was treated last night for a laceration of the knee suffered in a fall on a bike.

Shelley Fisher, 6, daughter of Harvey Fisher, 416 Grant St., Newell, received a laceration of the left lower leg on barbed wire when she fell against a fence.

In a fall with a stick in his mouth, James Husk, 4, son of Leonard Husk, 164 Center St., received a laceration of the roof of the mouth.

Patricia Price, 16, daughter of Dewey Price of Chester R. D. 1, suffered a laceration of the finger on a razor blade at home.

William Felture, 11, son of William Felture, 834 St. George St., was treated for a cut of the right palm suffered on metal of an auto.

Robin Uselton, 6, daughter of Charles Uselton, 311 Belek St., was treated Sunday for an injury of the heel received in a bike accident.

Jerry Linger Jr., 8 - month-old son of Jerry Linger of Morgan-town, suffered second degree scalds of the left arm when he pulled a container of hot coffee onto himself.

Jay Wedgewood, 12, son of William Wedgewood of Orion Ave., Chester, received a laceration of the cheek while at a dinner Saturday.

Scott Smith, 4, son of Keith Smith, 1948 Dresden Ave., suffered a cut of the head in a fall down hill against a stone.

In a fall down steps at home, Cora Lee Crawford, 3, daughter of Mrs. Martha Crawford, 611 Florida Ave., Chester, received a fracture of the left arm.

Jeff Guidoo, 10, son of Gary Guidoo of Canton St., suffered a puncture wound of the right foot on a nail.

William Cupp, 13, son of Homer Cupp, 1198 Mick Rd., was treated for a laceration of the left ankle received on glass in a creek.

Lee Taylor, 15, son of John Taylor of Substation, received a deep cut of the right forearm on window glass.

Girl, 18, Hurt In Auto Crash

A Wellsville girl was admitted to City Hospital Saturday night with injuries suffered in one of the holiday traffic accidents in the area.

Miss Kathy Gitschier, 18, daughter of Milford Gitschier, 213 8th St., Wellsville, was injured in a two-car crash on Route 213 near the intersection with Route 7 at Yellow Creek at 10:50 p. m.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said a car driven by Gerald L. Hughes, 20, of 927 Orchard Grove Ave. was struck by another driven by Frances L. Schrock, 32, of Warren.

The woman turned off Route 7, went left of center and hit the Hughes car. Both were damaged extensively, officers said.

The Schrock woman was cited for driving left of center.

Miss Gitschier was a passenger in Hughes' car. She is in "fair" condition with a whiplash injury of the neck.

Sentenced For Rioting

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Forty persons convicted of participating in last May's anti-Chinese riots in the central Java town of Tegal have been given jail sentences ranging from 8 to 42 months, Antara news agency reported Sunday.

The famous German battleship "The Graf Spee" was scuttled outside of Montevideo in World War II.

Another Record Crowd Attracted To State's Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cool, clear weather attracted another record crowd to the Ohio State Fair Sunday as the 11-day exposition headed into the home stretch.

E. J. Keirns, fair manager, predicted Sunday afternoon that attendance Sunday might have reached the 50,000 mark. Total attendance for the week-and-a-half long exposition would exceed 600,000, a new all-time figure.

Last year, 11 fair days drew 517,702 persons.

Labor Day promises to be a real bargain day at the 110th event.

A 2-for-1 admission proclamation by Gov. James A. Rhodes should assure one of the biggest days attendance-wise. Children 12 and under will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Monday is "salute to labor and industry" day at the exposition. Also on tap are the "Buckeye 100" Championship Auto Races, featuring many of the nation's top drivers.

Ohio Traffic Deaths Mount

By The Associated Press

The traffic toll on Ohio's highways began to mount Sunday night after 48 hours of the three-day Labor Day holiday weekend.

By 6 p. m. (EST), 10 persons had lost their lives on the state's roads and two others died in miscellaneous mishaps.

The Associated Press survey of traffic deaths began at 6 p. m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

State officials had predicted that 24 persons would perish on the holiday weekend compared to last year's 25 victims.

Three of those killed this weekend died in mishaps that occurred in the City of Columbus.

The fatalities:

Friday Night
James Schwab, 15, Gadenhuthen, struck by a car while riding a bicycle on U.S. 36, near Uhrichsville.

Donald Groves, 8, Columbus, struck by a three-foot-thick pipe at a construction site in Columbus.

Saturday
Amos Lee James, 22, Richmond, Ind., when his car went out of control on Ohio 121, north of New Paris, Preble County.

Duane Smaltz, 11 months, of burns sustained in a fire at his home in Findlay Friday.

Vallie L. Eichenlaub, 68, Greenwich, Huron County, in truck-train collision at crossing near Greenwich.

Mike Pasho, 7, Youngstown, struck by a car while riding a bicycle near his home.

Stanley K. Yeager, 22, Cleveland, in a single-car crash in Cleveland.

Sunday
Edward Carpenter, 45, Columbus, passenger in a taxi which collided with car at intersection in Columbus.

Betty Sue Cornelius, 28, Columbus, of injuries received Saturday when her car struck a utility pole in Columbus.

Minerva Seward, 31, Springfield, passenger in auto which went out of control and crashed through a fence around Port Columbus.

Juanita Simpson, 53, Dayton, passenger in auto involved in two-car crash in Dayton.

Roy Sumpter, 18, Akron, passenger in car which went out of control in Coventry Township south of Akron.

The four U. S. cities with the largest areas are Los Angeles, New York City, Chicago, and New Orleans, in that order.

Burial Site Discussed For Runaway Diplomat

MOSCOW (AP) — The body of runaway British diplomat Guy Burgess lay in a hospital morgue Sunday, awaiting a decision on whether he is to be buried in Britain or the Soviet Union, the country he chose above his own.

Burgess, 53, died Friday in Botkin Hospital following a heart attack. At the end, he was alone. His death was discovered at 7 a. m. Doctors estimated he died an hour earlier.

Donald Maclean, Burgess' fellow fugitive in one of the cold war's biggest spy scandals, confirmed the details of his death Sunday. Maclean added that he was not the unidentified Englishman who hospital authorities said was one of the last persons to see Burgess alive.

It was believed the mysterious visitor was Harold "Kim" Philby, the so-called "third man" in the Burgess-Maclean affair.

Philby, who defected behind the Iron Curtain earlier this year, has been exposed as the man who tipped off Burgess and Maclean 12 years ago that British security forces were about to seize them as Soviet agents. They skipped the country.

On July 30 the Soviet government announced Philby had been granted political asylum and Soviet citizenship. Philby has not appeared publicly in the Soviet Union.

Maclean said he cabled word of the death to Burgess' mother, Mrs. Eve Bassett, 76, in England. He said the Soviet foreign ministry offered to grant Mrs. Bassett an immediate visa to come to the Soviet Union if she wishes.

Her plans were not immediately known.

The body in the morgue was listed in hospital records as that of "Jim Andreyevitch Elliott." That was the names Burgess' Russian friends usually gave him.

Burgess and Maclean were not close friends in recent years and Maclean said he did not know who would handle the final affairs of Burgess.

Farm Prices On Meat Drop, Indicating Declines At Retail

Farm prices on beef and pork dropped last week, indicating more favorable prices at retail within the next few days, according to Ed Watkins, market information agent with the Agriculture Extension Service at Canfield.

Most of the price decrease on live beef animals was on the better grades. These grades are favorite sources of the more popular steaks and the more tender roasts.

Market forecasts indicate that it is unlikely that beef prices will repeat last fall's record of increasing rather sharply through September. There is some evidence, however, that beef prices will increase moderately later in the fall and early winter.

Most cuts of pork now are in a moderate price range. The largest supply of pork usually is available in November and December, and prices are beginning to reflect the beginning of this seasonal pattern.

Although it is expected that hog prices will be more uniform than in many years, market experts expect some additional decline in price by late fall.

Compared with the price level of a year ago, bacon, picnics, lard, and ham appear to be good selections this week. Fresh shoulder roasts, pork steaks and loins are somewhat above last year's level, but the recent price drop will tend to bring prices on these items to about the level of a year ago.

A number of items of fresh produce are providing sources of rather economical foods this week. Outstanding choices among these foods are tomatoes, sweet corn, snap beans and carrots as well as the more tender salad vegetables such as green onions, lettuce, green peppers, and cucumbers.

August and September are the heavy supply months for field grown tomatoes in this area. Tomatoes now on the market are from the late summer crop grown mostly in local fields. Prices indicate that this is the time to buy in quantity for canning purposes and to make tomato juice.

For the state as a whole, Ohio's crop of late summer tomatoes is well under that of a year ago and some 43 per cent less than the 1957-61 average. Normally during this period most of our

Social Security Number Due As Taxpayer Identification

Walter Kimbro, manager of the Columbiana County Social Security office in East Liverpool, said the familiar Social Security number will take on a new and additional job Jan. 1.

Effective with that date, the Social Security number will also be used as a taxpayer's identification number.

Since the first Social Security numbers were issued in 1936, the little red, white and blue card has become a familiar part of our society, Kimbro said.

Until 1962 Social Security cards were issued only to persons working in positions covered under the Social Security Law or to persons planning to go to work in the near future. Now anyone receiving over $10 in income from any source not subject to the withholding tax will have to have a Social Security number for use as their taxpayer identification number.

Many local banks, savings and loan companies and other financial institutions are already contacting their clients to obtain their taxpayer identification number.

By the end of 1963 all persons receiving taxable income should have been issued an identification number if they already do not have a Social Security number.

If you already have a Social Security number you do not need to obtain another number for Internal Revenue Service use. In fact, no one should have more than one Social Security number. If however, you don't have a Social Security number and you receive any type income not subject to the withholding tax, such as interest on savings accounts, dividends on stocks and bonds, etc., you must obtain an identification number by the end of 1963, he said.

There is no minimum or maximum age for obtaining a taxpayer's identification number. In recent months the East Liverpool Social Security office has issued identification numbers to very young children as well as to many senior citizens in their 70's and 80's.

Further information regarding the taxpayer's identification number may be obtained from the local Internal Revenue Service Office, 134 E. 5th St., or the East Liverpool Social Security Office, 740 Dresden Ave. Office hours for Internal Revenue are 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. every Friday. Social Security office hours are 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday.

BETWEEN 80 and 100 boats participated. All drivers were members of the Three-Rivers Outboard Racing Association and were competing for points in the national standing.

John Parsons was chairman of the regatta.

Listed as top drivers of the day by the racing association were Allen Seaman of Cambridge, who had one first place and a third; Jerry Lohrer of Erie, Pa., two firsts; Charles Young of Coraopolis, Pa., a first and third; Clyde Marker of McKeesport, a first; Gene Lambert of Youngstown, a second and third, and Bob Fortune of Ashtabula, a first and third.

THE WELLSVILLE Jaycees held a free public concert Sunday night and over 200 attended. It was on Riverside Ave. in front of the Riverside United Presbyterian Church.

The activities at Wellsville will open at 1 this afternoon with a community picnic at Hammond Park featuring free ice cream and soft drinks, numerous games and contests and a baby contest.

A parade with over 75 units, including six high school bands and several floats, will begin at 7 p.m.

A FREE dance will be held at 9 p.m. at MacDonald School. The girl selected as Miss Jaycee of 1964 will be crowned about 10 p.m. There are 27 contestants.

The East Liverpool Jaycees were conducting a "coffee stop" today on Route 30 near the outskirts of town. Traveling motorists are invited to stop, have a free cup of coffee and relax a few minutes from driving.

The Wellsville and East Liverpool Jaycees sponsor the events to keep area residents at home and off the highways over the long Labor Day weekend.

Tires Stolen Off Car; Wallet With $2 Taken

The thefts of a billfold from a car on the River Rd. and three tires and wheels from an auto of an Edwards Ave. man were reported to city police Sunday.

Vicki Myers, 1295 Pennsylvania Ave., reported the billfold containing $2 in change, along with her driver's license and other cards, was removed from the front seat of the car parked along the River Rd. sometime between 3:30 and 5 p.m.

Gerald Stewart, 724 Edwards Ave., said three wheels, tires and tubes along with a jack and a breaker bar, were taken from his car in front of his home yesterday.

Wellsville Man Hurt In Demolition Project

Clifford Athey of Center St., Wellsville, general contractor for razing the homes at the site of the new Post Office facility at Wellsville, is in "fair" condition at Osteopathic Hospital with injuries suffered Saturday evening while working.

Athey was admitted at 6:50 p.m. with a fractured skull and broken neck.

Athey was standing atop a truck loading lumber when he apparently lost his balance and fell landing on his head.

Three Monks Take Asylum

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Three Buddhist monks took asylum in the U.S. embassy Sunday night, reliable sources reported. Earlier two monks who took refuge in the U.S. Aid Mission headquarters 12 days ago left voluntarily.

The three new refugees were understood to have escaped from raids on pagodas by government forces Aug. 21. They were believed to have been hiding somewhere in the city since.

Tight security was imposed at the embassy and a spokesman said no one but top officials would be allowed to enter during the night. The embassy gate was locked and U.S. Marine guards, usually friendly with newsmen, declined to talk.

Informants said, however, the three monks arrived in a taxi at sunset and were immediately admitted.

U.S. officials declined to answer any questions about the identities of the monks or their status.

It was likely the affair would cause more diplomatic friction between the United States and the South Vietnamese government.

The United States rarely grants asylum to political refugees from a friendly government. But the U.S. government has expressed disapproval of what it calls repression of Buddhists in South Viet Nam.

The monks who left the aid mission earlier ignored U.S. security officers' warnings that they might be arrested. They said they believed it was safe for them to leave.

Thich Hue Thoi and Thich Kim Muon embraced U.S. Marine guards, got into a taxi and drove through a downpour to the An Quang Pagoda. The Buddhist leadership there, approved by the government, had assured the two monks it was safe for them to come.

But police agents were inside the pagoda and it was believed the pair underwent interrogation.

At the aid mission headquarters, the monks lived in an air conditioned office — they requested blankets — after leaping over the wall of Xa Loi Pagoda during a police raid Aug. 21. They landed in the adjacent mission parking lot and were taken in by U.S. officials.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, who arrived Aug. 22, visited the two monks even before he presented his credentials to president Ngo Dinh Diem. Lodge ordered vegetarian Buddhist food sent into the monks daily.

It is unusual for the United States to grant asylum to citizens of a friendly nation.

Informed sources said the Diem government was angry because the monks gained shelter in the mission headquarters and made it known it wanted them back.

Lodge said, however, that he never was asked formally for the return of the monks.

The monks told newsmen at An Quang Pagoda that they were not important in the Buddhist movement and had very little contact with any of the leaders. They said they sought refuge to escape the violence of the police raid on Xa Loi Pagoda the day the government imposed martial law in Saigon.

car was demolished, officers reported.

Jean Bell, 20, of Columbiana R. D. 2 was cited after her car rammed the rear of one on Route 14, knocking it into the rear of another, officers said.

The patrol said cars operated by Joseph Rafferty, 48, of 542 W. Clark St., East Palestine, and John Strawser, 20, of Sebring, were halted for a stop light at the intersection with Route 46.

The woman's car hit the rear of Strawser's, knocking it into Rafferty's, the patrol said. The mishap occurred at 4:10 p.m.

Donald Murphy, 18, of Beaver Falls was cited for traveling at a speed too fast for conditions after his car rolled over along County Rd. 421 near New Waterford yesterday morning at 3:15.

Murphy, who was unhurt, lost control on a curve about 200 yards south of Route 14, the patrol said.

Claude Austin, 54, of Mansfield escaped injury when his 1960 sedan veered off a curve on Route 30 about 5 miles west of Lisbon Sunday afternoon at 4:15 and hit a guardrail.

About $175 damage occurred to the auto, the patrol reported. Joseph Ofara, 36, of Independence was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his car rammed the rear of another on Route 45 about a half mile south of Salem Saturday.

Ofara's car hit the rear of an auto operated by Louis Grande, 28, of Salem, who slowed for a right turn.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Our 23-year-old daughter was married last spring. She is expecting a baby in November.

Both she and her husband have two more years of college. She is working on her master's degree, he on his Ph.D.

Last week my daughter told me that she and her husband have decided to give up their child for adoption. She says the doctor will handle all the details and she is not going to even see the baby. Her reason for doing this is that both she and her husband want to finish their education and with a baby it would be impossible.

I'm horrified and have told her so but I can't seem to reach her. These are intelligent, decent young people, Ann. They would be wonderful parents. I have offered to take the baby and she said, "No, if we see the baby we would want to keep it."

Please help me persuade her against doing this terrible thing. —NO WORDS LEFT.

Dear No Words: Your observation that "They would be wonderful parents" is incorrect. The prime requisite for successful parenthood is to WANT a child. These two "intelligent, decent" people don't qualify.

Of course, it's a dreadful thing they are considering and they probably will regret it later but this is their decision to make. I earnestly hope—with you, my dear—that they will change their minds but now that you've let them know how you feel, stay out of it.

Fighting Family

Dear Ann: We have two teenagers who are driving their father and me crazy. They are both above average in intelligence but when we leave them alone for more than 10 minutes they try to kill each other.

The girl is 15 and the boy is 16. To listen to them bicker and pick at each other you'd think they were 5 and 4. If something isn't done about their fighting soon my husband threatens to move to a hotel.

Last night when we came home from a meeting the girl had a bloody nose and the boy showed us a handful of hair she had pulled out of his head. The mirror in the dining room was cracked. She had thrown something at him and missed.

I've talked to them till I'm blue in the face. I've threatened, begged and punished in every possible way. Nothing helps. My best friend who is a very smart woman says it's natural for a brother and a sister to have disagreements. Please help.—BATTLE WEARY.

Dear Weary: It IS natural for a brother and a sister to have disagreements but your two children are trying to kill each other. This appears to be a symptom of deep-seated emotional problems. When a boy and a girl at 15 and 16 are so full of hostility that they must resort to physical violence, it means they both need professional help.

Memo To Sweethearts

Dear Ann: That boy who kissed his sweetheart with his eyes open—that was me, 20 years ago. I wasn't even aware I was doing it and I considered it perfectly normal. I don't remember ever seeing anything.

Rather than mention it and make me self-conscious, my brainy wife simply brushed my eyelids with her fingertips. What I believed was a gesture of tenderness was a signal to turn off the headlights.

So please print this letter and give the girl a helping hand. I think my wife's system is infinitely more romantic than saying, "What are you looking at, Bub?"—BLINDED BY LOVE.

Dear Blinded: I agree — and let's hope she sees this.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

First Retarded Child Camp Ends In Beaver

Beaver County's first camp for mentally retarded children closed Friday at Bradys Run Park. The camp was sponsored by the Beaver County Chapter of the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Lu Zinkham, camp director, said approximately 160 retardates utilized the services of the camp during August.

In past months, the association has sent 20 children to Pittsburgh Variety Club's Camp O'Connell. The association intends to renew the activity next summer if sufficient funds are available.

Akron Youth Killed As Car Flips Over

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Roy Sumpter, 18, of Akron, was killed Sunday when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and flipped over on a county road in Coventry Township south of here.

The driver, Richard Haser, 18, of Akron, was charged with second degree manslaughter by Summit County sheriff's deputies. He escaped with only minor injuries.

The first words of God in the Bible are "Let there be light." (Genesis 1:3).

Five New Halls To Open At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five new residence halls — which will house more than 1,000 students — will open this month when Ohio State University begins its 91st year of instruction.

The four-story dormitories will be the first opened in the university's developing $15 million complex at the north edge of the campus. When completed, the dormitory area will house about 4,500 students in 13 buildings.

The buildings, being financed by self-liquidating revenue bonds, represent the university's major effort to provide university-owned residence halls for all its students. Almost 8,000 students will be housed by the school this year, but more than 33,400 students are expected to register for the fall term.

The university's five undergraduate branch campuses—at Marion, Newark, Mansfield, Lima and Lakewood — expect an enrollment of about 2,200 this month. Lakewood's enrollment should be between 800 and 1,000.

Fees for both Ohio and non-resident students at the university have been raised. Ohio residents must pay $125 a quarter this year, non-residents must pay $290. Last year, quarterly fees were $110 and $260, respectively.

Professor 'Learns'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Jorge Pinochet, 37, a professor of law of the University of Chile, got a 140-day jail term because he refused to pay $30 in fines for parking in places reserved for government officials. Pinochet claimed laws authorizing such parking are unconstitutional.

Queen's Husband Unwittingly Has New Dance Craze

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, has unwittingly given Britain a new dance craze.

It's a twitching, hip-swinging number called the blues, which includes as one of its key steps a movement known as the Philip. This imitates the familiar hands-clasped-behind-the-back stance and walk of the prince on public occasions.

To dance the blues well you are supposed to relax all over, put on a deadpan face and just drift into the steps.

Marie Cartmell, a professional dance demonstrator, gave this description:

"You relax all over, put on a deadpan face and drift into the blues beat nice and easy opposite your partner — but not touching. Then you swing your hips from right to left, and start twitching — hands, feet and head."

"You could almost call it the St. Vitus dance."

1 Killed, 3 Injured In 2-Car Collision

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Juanita Simpson, 53, of Dayton was dead on arrival at St. Elizabeth's Hospital Sunday following a two-car collision on Dayton's near west side.

Mrs. Simpson was a passenger in an automobile driven by her daughter, 37-year-old Armer J. Williams. Mrs. Williams and another passenger, Edna Patterson, 54, were in serious condition. A third passenger, 17-year-old Charlotte Stanford, received minor injuries.

More Tips Given On New Flooring

Question. We have strip vinyl on two floors. Due to some remodeling that has been done, it is badly marked up.

We would like to change to vinyl tiles but don't like the idea of removing the old flooring. Can we cement the new tiles directly to the strip vinyl and will it hold?

Answer: Any time you cement resilient tiles over old flooring, laid over a regular wood floor, you risk the possibility that the previous material will come unstuck and take the tiles with it.

However, we have seen several such installations, made several years ago, and they are still in excellent shape.

It's a calculated risk, but will work if the old flooring is still solidly attached. Nobody can tell you much about your particular case unless he makes an on-the-spot inspection and, even then, he can make only an educated guess.

One possibility is to drive several dozen nails, separated at fairly even intervals, into the old flooring, being certain that it takes hold in the wooden floor. This may eliminate future trouble if the old cement should come loose at a few points.

The only certain way is to install plywood or hardboard underlayment over the old floor, nailing it solidly.

Walls Take On Culture In New Opera Murals

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Culture will go to walls in a new series of opera murals. Designer, muralist James Seeman has developed new techniques of reproduction in his wall-paper studios to capture the vitality of paintings that illustrate opera scenes. The murals are silk screened on vinyl or canvas.

"This was not begun as a commercial venture, although the murals will be sold," he says. "The aim is to make this project the beginning of a permanent collection. We plan to add one or two a year until it is complete."

An opera lover himself, Seeman commissioned outstanding designers of theater settings for these murals.

Three scenes from "La Boheme" have been designed by Lili de Nobili of Paris, famed designer of opera stage settings.

The larger center panel depicts the Christmas Eve scene of the Cafe Momus and the vivid pagentry of scene, color and lighting — the setting sun, light from the cafe, in the store and reflected from candles.

Miss De Nobili also painted "Rosenkavalier."

"Cavalleria Rusticana," by the American designer of stage settings, Robert Davison, involves fishermen, schooner masts, quaint dwelling and villagers. Davison also has put the fiesta of "Carmen" to canvas.

Two ballets will be included in the series. Seeman plans to do one of his favorite ballets, "Swan Lake." The other ballet, "La Belle Helene," was completed by the French painter, Marcel Vertes, just before his death.

"But the probabilities are that we cannot use Vertes' scenes," Seeman explains. "The process of working with an artist on a project of this sort goes on for a long time after the painting is finished. He must aid in relating the painting to the finished project. We do not know what we can do about this one."

There was a time that good murals came only from France, he points out, but Americans now are doing a better job. "Instead of just three or four colors, we can turn out murals in 20 colors," he says.

The over-all "La Boheme" mural is 18 feet by 6 feet in three panels, the larger panel in the center. They may be used separately or in combination.

Delicate half-tones, shadings and color separation are planned for faithful reproductions of the original paintings. All the opera themes were chosen to fit into a timeless period of home furnishings, Seeman says.

Painting Tips Are Outlined

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Painting a room? Be sure you do the ceiling first. Doing the walls first leaves open the possibility that they may get splattered when the ceiling is being painted.

As in all other kinds of painting, proper preparation of the surface is essential to good results.

In most cases, this consists only of washing the ceiling with a detergent solution. But if there are cracks or other breaks, they must be repaired with patching plaster. When the patches are thoroughly set, spot prime them with the same paint being used for the entire ceiling. Those spots must be completely dry before you begin the job.

You can use either a brush or roller for painting the ceiling, but these days most home handymen find that they can do it faster with a roller.

Unless you have what is called an edging roller, it is necessary to brush paint a narrow strip next to the walls and then roller paint across the width of the ceiling. You brush paint this strip as you go along, although it can be done around the entire room at one time if you are using latex paint, which is less likely to show lap marks.

Whether using a brush or a roller and no matter what kind of paint, always blend the paint from a dry section into the wet edges of the previous section.

Start in a corner and roll out the paint with back and forth strokes, covering an area about two feet long and four feet wide. Next, use cross strokes in the long, even strokes in the direction of the wall where you started.

The ceiling should be completely dry before you begin painting the walls. Use a piece of metal or cardboard to protect the newly painted ceiling. If you use metal (hardware and paint stores sell special strips), be sure to wipe it frequently while working. If you use cardboard, you should have enough on hand so that saturated pieces can be discarded.

Where it is possible to lower the base of a ceiling fixture, do so before painting. It is much easier to do this than to paint around the fixture.

You can stand on a stepladder, place a strong plank across the legs of two stepladders or stand on a sturdy piece of furniture, such as a bureau. Remove the drawers from the bureau so that it can be moved around the room easier.

And be sure to protect it, and the floor and other furniture, with dropcloths or newspapers. You can buy an extension handle that attaches to a roller and permits painting a ceiling while standing on the floor. But you'll still have to stand on a ladder to paint around the perimeter of the room.

Remember that a dark color tends to make a high ceiling seem lower; a light color tends to make a low ceiling seem higher.

Some Things To Ponder If Selling House Yourself

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Can you sell your house yourself?

Of course you can.

Will this save you the real estate broker's commission?

Of course it will.

But hold on a minute. It's not that simple. A representative of a real estate office usually can sell your house faster than you can yourself and often get a better price for it.

As a third party, he is in a much better position to negotiate when there is a difference of opinion over price, which there usually is. And if he is familiar with the area (a good reason to select a broker or realtor from your own neighborhood), he can weed out the curiosity seekers from the actual potential purchasers.

Incidentally, if you do decide to sell your own house, check on whether your local laws permit the posting of a "for sale" sign. Some don't. Newspaper advertising is the best bet. In composing such ads, stick to the facts people are interested in and avoid flowery phrases.

If you will just remember the things you looked for when you bought the house, you'll know what is important when you get around to selling it.

A dingy exterior will discourage many persons from even looking at the interior. Overcrowded closets will give the impression there isn't enough closet space. Fingerprints on the walls make it appear that the occupants aren't keeping the children in check. Caked grease on the stove burners indicates carelessness in cleaning chores. And so on.

Actually, the house itself may be a solidly built structure which is an excellent buy. But people are swayed in their purchases by little things. A $15,000 deal may go awry because the seller neglected to spend a few dollars on a simple repair.

When a professional—a speculator, if you will—buys a house for resale, the first thing he does is to put it in shape. It is curious to note, however, that many other persons begin to let things slide as soon as they make up their minds they'll be moving soon.

Remember that expenses incurred for the specific purpose of selling your house can be deducted when you get around to telling Uncle Sam how much profit you made on the sale.

It is perhaps sad, but true, that the prospective buyer of an old house does not expect to pay the first price quoted. He figures that the asking price will not be the final price.

And the seller knows that the buyer expects this, so he asks more than he expects to get. The final figure usually is a compromise that is somewhere near what the seller should have asked for the house in the first place. It's a kind of game that the buyer and seller play, with each pretending that he doesn't know the strategy of the other.

Missile's Subjected To 'Torture Tests'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — To prepare it for its role as an all-weather, quick-strike tactical weapon, the Army's Pershing missile is subjected to a number of torture tests.

The missiles are exposed to tough experiments above the Arctic Circle in Alaska and then are shifted from the deep freeze to the oven — the tropical jungles of Panama.

Before some firings at Cape Canaveral, Pershings are bounced over rough terrain on a tracked vehicle similar to that which would transport the weapons in wartime. The 400-mile range missile is scheduled for deployment in Western Europe in 1964.

Method Offered For Placing Of Mesh On Screen

Question: Several of the old screens in our house need new wire mesh.

I remember doing a couple of them over a few years ago and having a difficult time tightening the mesh properly. I had to have someone else hold the screening in a taut position while I did the tacking.

It produced a passable result, but did not have a professional look. Is there some knack to getting the mesh completely tight so that it doesn't look like a homemade job?

Answer: Although you didn't say so, we assume the screen frames are made of wood. Remove the screening material, then place the wooden frame on a table or other support large enough so that none of the frame overhangs.

Get two boards at least one inch thick and place them under the two ends of the frame. Next, clamp the sides of the frame to the table. This will force the frame to buckle in the middle.

While the clamps are in place, attach the screening to the frame in normal fashion; that is, without drawing it too tightly or leaving it too loose.

After the screen is completely attached, remove the clamps. This will bring the frame back to its regular position and will draw the mesh taut.

Ideas Offered On Need For Closet Space

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The average American closet is a big joke and long has furnished inspiration to cartoonists and comedians.

It is crammed to the hilt in the smallest or largest house. The bigger the house, the more we have to store. Many people in very large homes resort to using unused bedrooms as closets.

Small home owners and apartment dwellers are always apologizing for their closets when others get a glimpse of the untidy mass of objects crammed into closet shelves, doors and hangers.

Most closets are planned badly to begin with and there is not much that can be done about the blind space above and on the side of the average closet. It is just poor design. We often forget what is stacked on shelves or hangers in an area we can't see without a flashlight.

Some people add portable wardrobes to bedrooms, for dresses, suits, coats, sometimes in a way that makes it look built-in, using the room's small, inadequate closet for accessories. If one has a few feet of space for the additional unit, it is an ideal solution.

One home owner utilized the small closet as an accessory closet, lining the entire closet and shelves with a vinyl stick-on plastic paper.

The back wall was imbedded with a series of upholstery tacks with colored heads (or you can get some of the larger fancy tie-back knobs) to hold necklaces, bracelets, earrings, rings that are worn from day to day. A pin cushion was nailed to the wall to hold ornamental pins, hat pins, etc.

Shoe boxes were covered with the stick-on paper and arranged on inexpensive shelf arms on the side walls within the closet.

Hat boxes were covered also and nailed to the closet door. The section of the lid placed next to the closet door was removed so that the lid could be easily taken off. Square boxes work best, advised the closet designer.

The traditional shelf along the top of the closet that is seldom useful for anything but a few hats or paraphernalia makes a particularly useful shelf for pocketbooks which can be lined up like books on the library shelf. Women who have little to put in purses can amass a great collection of pocketbooks.

In lining up boxes on the door, experiment so that the size permits the door to close easily.

The amount of pleasure this closet can give is well worth the small floor space forfeited in a room for the extra wardrobe, even though at first it seems like a great sacrifice.

One thing that is important in a bedroom closet is good light.

Teamster Union To Back Offer, End To Strike

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — A Teamsters Union strike committee, considering proposals made by the D. W. G. Cigar Corp. Sunday, said they pretty much meet employees demands.

Edward Haumesser, business representative of Local 908, said the committee will recommend at a meeting tomorrow that the proposals be accepted and the workers return to their jobs.

The wildcat strike, which began Friday, idled the cigar plant here and at Delphos, Ohio, and threatened the company's other plants at Van Wert and Detroit, Mich. Haumesser said if the workers do not accept the program tomorrow, the strike probably will hit Van Wert and Detroit.

The Teamsters Union was certified to represent the workers last week by the National Labor Relations Board. The union said the walkout resulted from a long build-up of grievances.

Steps Offered For Painting Of Aluminum

WASHINGTON — of all metals used in home construction, aluminum is the easiest to paint.

This is fortunate because exposure to the elements soon dulls the original brightness and often creates a mottled appearance. The atmosphere of coastal and industrial areas can often pit it badly.

Aluminum is generally given a protective coating of oil in the factory to protect it against damage during shipment or erection. Unless the metal has weathered, this must be removed by washing with a phosphoric acid compound available at most paint and hardware stores. Follow the instructions on the container for best results. Let the surface dry completely before proceeding.

The first step in painting is to apply a quality exterior metal or house primer, says the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association.

Zinc chromate is most commonly recommended, particularly where there are corrosive conditions. When the prime coat has dried hard — the label will tell you how long to wait — one or two coats of the finish paint can then be put on with a brush, roller or spray.

Almost any quality exterior paint or enamel will give satisfactory results over properly-primed aluminum, with two coats being better for the greatest resistance to moisture and corrosion. Exterior aluminum paint also can be used.

In some instances, you may want to retain the shiny look of new metal. If so, use a clear, non-yellowing acrylic or cellulose butyrate lacquer, omitting the primer.

When painting aluminum which has been exposed for some time, be sure to brush away any loose dirt or oxide. Use a detergent solution or paint thinner to get rid of oil or grease. Then prime and finish as with new metal.

Previously painted aluminum is treated like any other surface that has been painted. Where the old coating is in good condition and is adhering firmly, just remove dirt and surface contaminants.

Then apply one coat of the paint of your choice. If the old finish is still smooth or glossy—as may be the case with factory-finished siding—better roughen it with steel wool or sandpaper to provide tooth for the new paint.

In some instances, the old coating may be chipped or peeling, exposing the bare metal. In such cases, sand the edges to smooth out the surface and to remove any loose paint. Prime the bare spots and then finish as described earlier.

Be sure that you use only quality primers and finish coats. Only quality paint has the lasting hiding power, retains its color brilliance and is wear and weather resistant. To be sure that you are getting a quality product, consult your established, reputable paint dealer.

Columbus Undergoing Construction Boom

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus is undergoing a record construction boom with more than $20 million under contract in the downtown area.

The City Chamber of Commerce is happy. Merchants also are happy because they feel the new construction will bring more business downtown. And most of the city officials are happy.

But City Treasurer Arch Warren figures that fences for sidewalk detours around the sites are costing the city $11,000—in revenue lost from parking meters that are hidden by construction fences.

Warren won't have this headache for long, though. He becomes Franklin County Auditor on Tuesday.

Partitions Will Serve Many Uses In A Home

One of the most effective ways to make a house or an apartment more attractive and livable is to partition existing rooms.

Best of all, you can easily build partitions yourself without carpentry experience or power tools. There are many different uses for partitions, according to the National Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Enclosing a portion of the kitchen, for example, provides a more pleasant, semi-private dining area. Similar improvements can be produced by partitioning studies out of living rooms or porches and erecting vestibules around front doors.

Make one big bedroom into two smaller ones by means of partition. This idea is particularly useful to families with young children, for growing youngsters inevitably need rooms of their own.

Partitions consist simply of a framework made of 2 x 4 lumber covered with wood paneling or wall board; 2 x 4's are also used to frame doorways and other openings. Molding strips laid along the top of the partition offer easy means of hiding gaps between it and the ceiling.

The use of angle braces and similar metal fasteners eliminates tricky nailing and permits much of the work to be pre-assembled on floor or table.

Most partitions, besides dividing unsatisfactory areas, also perform decorative functions.

Instead of erecting a full floor-to-ceiling separator, for example—run it only part-way up. Instead of making a solid wall—design it with vertical or horizontal openings in the unit by means of boards or dowels spaced a number of inches apart.

Shelving, drawers, closets, trays and planter boxes — to mention just a few — can each be built into a partition to increase its utility. Your building materials dealer will gladly advise you concerning needed materials and simplified methods.

Hardware Show Set At Cleveland

More than 10,000 buyers of hardware and allied products will meet in Cleveland Sept. 15-16-17 to attend the Mid-America Hardware Show.

It will be the largest show and convention in the 70-year history, according to John B. Conklin, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Hardware Association, sponsors of the show.

It will be held in Cleveland Public Auditorium, where buyers will see the lines and hundreds of new products being introduced by more than 300 leading manufacturers. Another feature of the show will be a Mercury space capsule placed on exhibit through the cooperation of the United States government through the NASA Mercury program.

Many internationally-known speakers will address those attending the three-day convention sessions. They will include Drew Pearson of Washington, columnist, author and lecturer, and Dr. John H. Furbay of New York City, world traveler and air commander.

Some Experts Claim Gold In Asteroids

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — That's gold in them thar' asteroids, more than enough to pay the national debt, say some experts of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

They estimate the asteroid Ivar could yield $50 trillion in rare platinum metals. And Ivar is only one of millions of asteroids circling the sun between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter. They are believed to be bits of planets disintegrated long ago.

But how do you catch a tiny asteroid racing thousands of miles an hour many millions of miles from the earth? Ivar, for example, is only three miles in diameter.

The NASA experts believe that some day in the future, man will develop spaceships capable of pulling alongside an asteroid, permitting an astronaut to reach out and chip off samples.

Daniel Emmet, in 1858, composed the famous song "Dixie."

Steel Reports Order Upturn

CLEVELAND (AP)—If the nation's steel mills continue their current operating pace the rest of the year, Steel Magazine said today, 1963 output will reach 106 million ingot tons and perhaps more. Production last year was 98.3 million tons.

The upswing in orders already has started, Steel said, and major mills have seen demand improve steadily, if not spectacularly, for almost a month. The mills reported they are booking tonnage 25 to 30 per cent above the pace of late July, when demand hit bottom.

According to the national publication, an upturn in sheet buying suggests these possibilities: 1. Consumer stocks may be smaller than steelmakers thought they were, and, 2. consumption may be higher than anticipated.

Production in August was about 7.8 million ingot tons, compared with 8.7 million tons in July and 7.1 million tons in August 1962. Ingot production this holiday week is expected to be about the same as the 1,761,000 tons Steel estimated the industry poured last week.

Steel predicted that the U.S. Steel industry outlay for plant and equipment this year will top $1.1 billion, 17 per cent ahead of 1962.

The magazine surveyed 34 big companies and found that they are spending $1.01 billion this year, compared with $870 million last year. Steel estimated expenditures of the rest of the industry would push the total up to $1.1 billion, highest since 1960's $1.52 billion.

Some companies reported they are spending two to three times as much as they did in 1962. Several firms said they are spending less, because they completed major programs last year or the year before.

Steel's price composite on No. 1 heavy smelting grade of scrap rose 33 cents to $27 a gross ton last week.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Heloise: Here is a little hint for "two-story seamstresses." I sew upstairs because my machine happens to be there but my ironing board is in the basement.

Now, every seamstress knows how much easier it is to press out those seams and darts while she is sewing...

I saved myself from running up and down the stairs and lugging that mean old, heavy ironing board... by purchasing a child's ironing board at the toy counter and covering it with an old piece of blanket (a trick I learned from you).

Instead of using a drab white for the top cover I found a pretty print scrap of material and covered the padded miniature ironing board. It looks darling!

It's small, takes no space and suffices beautifully for pressing darts and seams.

G. G. F.

Another thing about this toy ironing board:
So many parts of a garment will fit over a child's ironing board which will not fit over a regular ironing board. Have you ever tried ironing children's sleeves on one of these? And pant legs?

Toy ironing boards are inexpensive. Go to your dime or department store and buy one. But be sure to pad it with the left-overs of a thick blanket, and don't forget to put a piece of foil right under the top cover. Makes ironing easier and quicker.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: We took a spring-type wooden clothespin and bored a hole through one side. This hole was large enough for a nail to go through.

I then put a nail above the drainboard where my wife cooks. My wife keeps this clothespin with her recipes. When she gets ready to bake, she removes the clothespin from the recipe box, hangs it on the nail and attaches her recipe in the grip part of it. This keeps all her recipes clean.

HAL SIMPSON.

DEAR HELOISE: I take high quality baking potatoes, peel them and slice them into strips.

I then scald (or blanch them in boiling water for about eight minutes) and let them drain thoroughly on a draining sheet.

I make my draining sheet by placing two heavy bath towels on my drain board and covering them with paper towels. The paper towels will absorb some of the starch from the potatoes but the moisture will go on through to the bath towels. This is far better than stacking up a bunch of paper towels, and cheaper too.

After they are thoroughly drained, I fry them in deep fat until they are a light tan color.

Set them aside so that the fat can drain off.

I put these in cellophane bags and pop in my deep freeze. (I try to use them up within four months.)

When I get ready to serve them, all I have to do is remove the package from the deep freeze, place on a foiled-lined cookie sheet and put in my oven at 350 degrees until they are well heated and slightly brown.

And that's all there is to it!

D. M. C.

DEAR HELOISE: For years my fireplace grate and hearth were smoked and I could not get them clean...

I finally concocted a very good formula; and it's wonderful.

I used a strong solution of warm water, detergent and liquid bleach. I scrubbed the brick and hearth with this solution. After rinsing, it looked beautiful once again.

Pamper.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a combination washer - dryer and to save on utilities... I wash several washer loads of clothes... then dry one damp batch after another while the dryer is hot. I feel this saves.

Minimum Wage Increase Takes Effect Tuesday
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz called attention Sunday to an increase in the federal minimum wage which goes into effect Tuesday.

Wirtz noted that for employees covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act prior to 1961 the minimum wage advances from $1.15 an hour to $1.25 an hour.

About 2.6 million workers in a covered work force of nearly 28 million would receive wage increases, adding about $365 million to their annual incomes, according to Labor Department figures.

In addition, a 44-hour maximum work week will become effective at the same time for employees in certain enterprises, principally retail and service establishments, placed under provisions of the act for the first time in 1961.

This group will continue receiving a minimum of $1 an hour but for the first time will have to be paid premium pay of time-and-a-half time for work beyond 44 hours in one week.

This smaller group will catch up to the first group in minimum wages and overtime pay allowances by 1965 under an escalator schedule.

The group originally covered by provisions of the act now must be paid at least time-and-a-half time pay for any work beyond 40 hours in one week.

On Sept. 3 of next year, the minimum wage for the newer classifications falling under the act will rise to $1.15 an hour for a 42 hour work week.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Burgess Meredith Envied By All Rebels

The rest of the acting fraternity must envy Burgess Meredith as just about the luckiest actor around. Whenever a juicy part turns up on TV (and there aren't too many of those), Meredith usually gets it.

He's either a rich nut telling the world to get off or a poor nut doing the same. Hal Humphrey Many of you may remember he got "Naked City" off to a great start last season. He was a mad Greenwich Village poet who hocked his poetry to the corner bartender (Hershel Bernardi).

THERE WAS a wild street scene at the end which had Meredith stealing back his poems and trying to outrun the bartender to a mailbox.

Meredith recalls the scene vividly because, as he was being beaten into the gutter of a New York street by Bernardi, a big limousine drove by and two girls poked their heads from a back-seat window and gaily shouted to Meredith, "Hello, Buzzie!"

"I guess they knew me," he says, "and didn't think it the least bit strange to find me in those circumstances."

BUZZIE HAS BEEN in Hollywood the past few weeks running frantically from studio to studio. This season you'll see him as a mad pacifist ("Rawhide"), a growl of man-eating plants ("Burke's Law"), a man father with incestuous tendencies ("Breaking Point") and a diabolical brother hater ("77 Sunset Strip").

The latter is a five-parter which kicks off the season for a revamped "77 Sunset Strip" series. "Actually," says Meredith of the five-parter, "I'm an out-and-out villain in it, but I'm supposed to play it like a restrained Republican. But, do you know, when I'm not jumping around and ranting, I feel as if I'm not earning my money. It's really been a long time since I cooled out in a part."

MEREDITH SAYS, however, that the final seven pages of script in the fifth episode are a rouser of an emotional outbreak. This is his first trip to Hollywood in quite a spell, and Meredith always is amused over our provincialism. He has learned that what happens to a person after he leaves Hollywood doesn't count. "I know people out here who still believe I'm married to Paulette Goddard. My gosh, that was 15 years ago! I'm married again for 13 years and have two kids, a boy 12 and a girl 11."

MEREDITH COMES to Hollywood occasionally to "balance the budget" and keep things going on his 50-acre spread in Rockland County outside New York City.

Besides his wife (Kaja), an ex-ballerina who teaches instrument flying at New York's Teeterboro, and two kids, Meredith has a pool, tennis court and stable of 18 jumping horses.

"Here I am with a stable of jumpers and I can't get a role in a Western where I can use them. I'd take a bad part for myself, if I could get a good one for one of my horses," says Meredith.

He was offered the adventurous, high-living father role in ABC-TV's new "The Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" series premiering this fall. (Dan O'Herlihy took it.)

"THEY WANTED ME for five years, but I didn't think I could hold up that long. I'd be getting close to 60 before I'd be free of it. Those fellows working in series never get to find out what's going on in the outside world."

Meredith would rather direct the Actors Studio production of June Haver's "Marathon 33" with Julie Harris, which he plans to do later this year.

He starred in London recently with Eugene O'Neill's never-before-produced play about a race-track tout, "Hughie." It was a 40-minute all-talking one-man drama. One ambition unfulfilled was to play "Lawrence of Arabia."

"I had the rights to it years ago, and the family wanted me to do it because I looked like Lawrence. But no one was interested in putting up the money then, not even Sam Spiegel. By the time he did get around to it, I was too long in the tooth to play it."

Crisis In Africa Stretches Spain-Portugal Partnership

MADRID (AP) — The African crisis is stretching the Iberian partnership of Spain and Portugal. But political experts here say it will not be strained to the breaking point.

The worst tug to this accord came when Gen. Francisco Franco's Cabinet announced autonomy for two Spanish possessions in Africa — Fernando Poo and Rio Muni. This was shortly before Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar made his speech to the Portuguese nation warning that the Lisbon government would fight as necessary to hold its African territories.

Spanish officials say their action in announcing autonomy for Fernando Poo and Rio Muni was in no way intended to harm Portugal's own African policies, nor change them.

"It's simply that Portugal looks at the African problems in one way and we look at them in another," said one Spanish official. "We do not say that Lisbon is wrong. We believe our way is best for us and perhaps their way is best for Portugal."

African possessions do not pose a life or death problem for Spain and it can thus afford to take a different view of its African territories, this official said.

Spain has a mutual defense as well as an economic understanding with Portugal and in the past has contributed materially to Portugal's defense of its overseas possessions. Military vehicles such as jeeps and a variety of munitions and other military supplies have been exported from Spain to Portugal—presumably for use by Lisbon's forces in Angola and perhaps other African possessions.

Competent sources here say they have heard of no Spanish plan to stop such exports to Portugal.

Many Spaniards are sympathetic with Portugal and its African problems. They recognize the immense economic value to Portugal of such areas as Angola and Mozambique.

Introspection is the inspecting of one's own thoughts, while retrospection is a review of past events.

PRESIDENT OF HIS CLASS

Joe became president of his class because his classmates recognized his leadership qualities. He was alert, friendly, interested in people, always wanting to do something for someone. He spoke well himself, and listened when others spoke. Everyone said he was a perfect president.

A few short years ago, no one would seriously have considered Joe a candidate for the presidency of anything. He was shy, lacked initiative, and was afraid to express himself in a group. Then he became a newspaperboy. He learned how to meet people and talk with them. He learned how to think for himself and the importance of serving others well . . . . .

If there's a newspaperboy in your family, watch him. He may sometime be President!

If your son would like to have a "Review Route," have him stop in or call the Circulation Dept. 385-4545.

Junior Editors Quiz on— TIME MEASUREMENT

QUESTION: Since this is the 20th century, shouldn't we write this year 2063?

ANSWER: No, the year 2063 won't come until 100 years from now and it will be in the 21st century. To understand how we reckon the centuries, look at the first picture. "Century" comes from the Latin "centuria" and means 100, so a century is 100 years. Our reckoning called A.D. (Anno Domini, in the year of our Lord) starts with January 1 in the year 1. The 1st century will then include all the years from the year 1 through the year 100. The 1st century was not finished until the last day of the hundred years, which was Dec. 31, A. D. Then, Jan. 1, 101 A. D., the 2nd century started.

Now let's skip ahead to the 19th century. As our picture shows, the first day of this was Jan. 1, 1801, and the last Dec. 31, 1900. The 20th century began Jan. 1, 1901. Here we are in 1963—we'll be in the 20th century until Dec. 31, 2000 A.D.

FOR YOU TO DO: You'll be wondering who is the character in the extreme lower right. Our artist says it's a man dressed for a trip to the moon, which he thinks will certainly be possible during the 20th century. Make your own sketch of what you think a moon explorer will look like.

Gerolyn Spaulding of Lake Charles, La., wins the daily grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Sept. 2, the 245th day of 1963. There are 120 days left in the year. Today is Labor Day.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, President Truman proclaimed V.J Day as the Imperial Japanese government formally signed official surrender terms ending World War II. Ceremonies were held aboard the battleship Missouri in Tokyo Bay, presided over by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

On this date in 1789, the Treasury Department was organized with Alexander Hamilton as secretary.

In 1837, Samuel F.B. Morse gave the first public demonstration of his magnetic telegraph.

In 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt dedicated the $36 million Chicamunga dam and the artificial lakes of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

In 1947, the Soviet Union refused a U.S. request that the port of Dairen, China, be opened to international commerce.

Ten years ago ... twenty U.S. soldiers were drowned and two rescued when an Army engineers training boat capsized in a lake at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

Five years ago ... Atty. Gen. William Rogers called for a more liberal U.S. attitude toward the International Court of Justice at The Hague.

One year ago ... Iran reported an estimated 12,400 persons killed and thousands injured by one of the worst earthquakes in its history.

The Virgin Islands were discovered by Christopher Columbus during his second voyage to the New World in 1493. He named them Las Virgines, in honor of St. Ursula and her 11,000 martyr companions who, according to legend, perished on the banks of the Rhine.
